

For Breakfast Try "Sunkist" Oranges

Luscious Tree-Ripened Fruit

It is not sufficient to know that oranges are the most healthful of all fruits. It is quite as important to know the kind of oranges that are most healthful and most palatable. The very finest California oranges are now packed under the label "Sunkist." Please serve "Sunkist" oranges at breakfast tomorrow and learn the superiority of tree-ripened, seedless, fiberless oranges over the commonplace kind. Don't fail to save the wrappers.

There is so much "meat" and nourishment in "Sunkist" oranges and so little waste that, in addition to their extra fine flavor and goodness, they are really the most economical oranges to buy.

"Sunkist" Lemons Juiciest

Lemons differ as much as oranges. Pithy, thick-skinned lemons contain very little juice. Yet, it is money when you buy them. Please ask for "Sunkist" lemons and you will uniformly find each one is, and what a small percentage is also and over.

Santa Fe Reading Room Statistics and Results.

Superintendent Busser Finds Much Interest in New Work.

EIGHTEEN OF THEM.

A. T. & S. F. Has $250,000 Invested for This Purpose.

Other Items of General Interest in Traffic World.

S. E. Busser, superintendent of the Santa Fe reading rooms, who was in Topeka the other day, is sending out a booklet in which are many items of interest that might well be brought to the pupil's attention. The Santa Fe has eighteen reading rooms and club houses on their system. What Superintendent Busser has found out regarding the good the reading rooms are doing is worthy of note:

On the system we have five reading rooms and clubhouses and thirteen reading rooms.

On the payroll of the reading room department there are forty-six employees, whose average salary per day is $1.50, or a monthly salary expense of $2,000.

The cost of operating reading rooms on the system is $25,000 a year, apart from renewals and the purchase of books and papers.

The yearly cost of papers is about $2,500. A similar amount is spent for books.

The expense of putting on entertainments during the season of six months is about $5,000.

Salaries, improvements and renewals entail a cost of $50,000 a year.

The Santa Fe has now, counting the first cost of buildings and furnishings, over $250,000 invested in reading rooms.

In the libraries of the reading rooms there are now over 17,500 volumes, 40 per cent of which are fiction, 20 per cent history, 15 per cent biography, 15 per cent technical, and the rest general. On the tabulated reports of librarians there are over 386 books used each day on the system.

Michigan Entitled to Two on All-American.

Benbrook and Magidsohn Earned Guard and Half.

NEW RULES A FROST.

Officials Were Too Many and Rules Ambiguous.

Maybe a Bunch of Prize Fighters Could Play Some.

Few of the eastern experts and sport writers considered western material in selecting all-American football teams for the past season. A few, however, influenced by Michigan's virtual victory over Pennsylvania, accorded Yost's team two places. The New York Globe and the New York Telegraph agreed upon Magidsohn for left half and Benbrook for left guard. In giving the western man left half, Pendleton, the great captain of Princeton, crowded out the team. His stock slumped markedly in his failure to show form against Yale. Brown of the Navy, Wier of the Army and McKay of Harvard are all named for the guard position given Benbrook, but the big Wolverine seems the logical choice. McGovern, quarterback of Minnesota, was the hope of the west for the all-American position, but by unanimous accord Sprackling of Brown is given the place. McGovern's failure to play to form against Michigan hurt his chances.

The all-American team, drawn by comparison of the many offered, would consist of the following team:

In selecting Magidsohn and Benbrook for all-American positions, the Globe gives the reasons as follows:

"In Magidsohn, the Michigan eleven had a wonder—a hard, fast runner with a good head on his shoulders that was not afraid to poke its way anywhere. He was a star in the Pennsylvania game, and while not so conspicuous against Minnesota, was driving hard at the enemy all the time and shaking it up badly in his rushes. We place another Michigan man on our team because anybody who has seen him play could not possibly leave him out of the reckoning. This man is Benbrook, great 215-pound giant who is all over a gridiron, using his strength all the time to the very best advantage. He is another Horvath of Syracuse in his line work. Down at Pennsylvania they think he was at least half of the Michigan team."

Both Benbrook and Magidsohn were the mainstays of the Yost machine all season, and the machine in question was strong enough to beat Pennsylvania and to defeat Minnesota, the eleven that gave Yale its best offensive play.

"Having explained how the west gets in, let's go to the backfield again. Mercer at fullback was one of the Pennsylvania finds of the year. When things looked the darkest for the Red and White, it was he who saved the day. Mercer generally did it in his own slashing way. Mercer is an all-around athlete of fine gold. Besides running with the ball, he can punt and 'get out' in great shape to receive the forward pass.

"The choice of Wendell needs very little explanation. His work in the Yale game was a revelation. The college who did not believe a player could get through a strong line without material assistance. He is a regular tornado when he 'gets going.'"

Pittsburg Leader: Big Jack McCormick, boxer and trainer, declares that he can take eleven boxers and wrestlers and in three months' time teach them enough football to defeat either Yale or Harvard. "I think the system of training pursued by the college men is all wrong," says McCormick. "The pug and mauler train better, and in a contest of endurance they would outlast the football fellows."

A few years ago there was a good deal of derision when Dr. Roller, the wrestler, made the statement that he could name eleven wrestlers and boxers who could beat Yale. Yet Roller was a college man and a good football player.

Personally, I can say this, that when I lived in Philadelphia I used to take a bunch of boxers out to practice with Penn frequently. The college fellows said they liked it and said we gave them the hardest and most valuable practice they had.

"I know that we easily held our own with them, even in the kicking game. In a broken field our boys were superior. And by the way, in a dodging game, where would the college boys get? How many of them could catch Jim Corbett, Tommy Ryan or Abe Attell going down the gridiron?"

"The boxer or wrestler has stronger shoulders than the college man, and, as a rule, his wind is better. Give me a line of heavyweights, a couple of fast welters for ground-gaining backs and an Irish or English fullback to do the punting, and I'll bet we could beat the best of them."

Walter Steffen's review of the season follows:

Now that the football season is over and the new rules have been put to an adequate test, it is time for fair and just comment of the new code. I believe the critics will agree that the new rules have greatly reduced the number of injuries, and as that was the object of the rules this year, it must be admitted that the game has been a success.

The new game has won favor among the spectators, but its principal drawback is the ambiguity of the rules. The game has been criticized by the spectators because of the continuous wrangling of the officials. Time and again there have been repeated arguments among the officials as to the interpretation of the rules. The penalties have been altogether too numerous and it has caused the game to be slowed up. I have many times this season seen four and five successive penalties called.

The officials are not to be blamed for the continuous wrangling, as the rules are so ambiguous and uncertain that the closest students of the game have difficulty in interpreting them. This is partly due to the complicated rules, but mainly to the poor way in which the rules are worded. This is a difficulty that easily can be remedied and undoubtedly the rules committee will put the rules in readable English next year.

Another bad feature of the game is the unnecessary prominence of the officials. There are entirely too many on the field and they retard the game continually. This feature has hurt the game, and the public is bound to lose interest in it. The officials must be reduced next year and it is the duty of the rules committee to work out a set of rules in which the officials play a minor part.

In reading an account of any game it can be seen that the teams are repeatedly penalized for holding. Never before has there been so much holding going on as there has been this year. Just what is the reason for this? It is difficult to determine, but it must be due to some defect in this year's code.

Any player will admit that there is nothing so provocative of temper and bad blood as to be held and kept out of a play, and, unless this evil can be corrected, it will be unfortunate for the game.

One of the rules that caused a great deal of discussion before the opening of the season was the one prohibiting the flying tackle. Former players and coaches were harsh in their criticism of this restriction and said that it removed one of the best features of the game.

The season has shown, as was predicted, that the players utterly disregarded the rule and played as before, and I do not recall an instance where the rule has been enforced. The rules undoubtedly made the players more cautious and it undoubtedly has affected the tackling to some degree, but it must be admitted that the season has shown that it is absolutely useless and unnecessary.

There are other rules that are unnecessary. There is a rule that a man receiving a forward pass shall not be tackled until he has ten or at least one step. This rule has not been enforced, because the officials realized that it was unnecessary and impractical to enforce it.

I firmly believe that two-thirds of the forward passes that have been executed would have been penalized had the rule been enforced. Officials have arrived at the same conclusion as to this rule, which is sufficient reason to remove it from the guide next year.

The Washburn football players have arranged for a post season game on the Washburn field Saturday between the college of liberal arts and a combination of the law and medical colleges.

Most of the varsity men will be in the game and it ought to be worth watching.

The lineup of the varsity men is announced as follows:

Law and medic: Captain McCarroll; quarter: Whitcomb, fullback: Johnson, center: McIntyre, end: DeFrank, guard: an Pitts, tackle: The college eleven will have eight of the varsity squad: Burkhardt and Hardy, halves; Lee, Cowgill and Harrington, ends; Rogers and McIntosh, tackles, and Reagin, guard.

BOTH CHEWS AND SMOKES.

So Frank Gotch Has Surely Cut the Mat Game.

Fort Dodge, Ia., Dec. 2.—Has Frank Gotch really quit the wrestling game? Well, the strongest evidence that he has quit is given by Gotch himself for the world's heavyweight wrestling champion has fallen a victim to the tobacco habit. He both smokes and chews things he never indulged in when he was wrestling. Since Gotch announced his retirement, he has been busy at two things: the improvement of 1,000 acres of as fertile land as there is in Iowa, and the enjoyment of his well earned leisure. Gotch is reputed to have made more money than any other wrestler in the history of the game, and much of his mat earnings has gone for real estate near Humboldt, a small town 20 miles north of this city. This land he has been improving steadily.

When Gotch is not busy with his farm management, he is riding over the country in his $3,000 motor car he bought last summer. He is never alone on his rides, but generally has a secretary in the big machine occupied by his friends. Gotch holds the speed record for the 20 miles between his home town and Fort Dodge, having made the distance in something under 25 minutes.

"Why did I quit the wrestling game?" asked Gotch in reply to the same query. "Why, it gets so monotonous, this training for matches. The machine-like regularity with which I must do certain things palls, and I have long wanted to get away from it. I have money enough, 1,000 acres of good Iowa land, plenty of friends—so why should I work?"

Whatever Gotch does he does well.

SCROFULA
HEREDITARY BLOOD POISON

Scrofula is a disease manifested usually by a swelling and ulceration of the glands, especially about the neck. It is almost entirely hereditary in its origin, being the degeneration of some specific blood poison. Where the blood is greatly weakened with the scrofulous poison, the disease attacks other portions of the system besides the glands, and then we see its effects in weak eyes, poorly developed bodies, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, especially on the scalp, catarrhal troubles, etc. Scrofula usually makes its appearance in childhood, though manhood or womanhood may be reached before the poison progresses to the stage of outward manifestation. S. S. S. is the one real cure for Scrofula. It is a blood purifier without an equal, and it cures this destructive blood poison by removing every trace of the infection from the circulation. S. S. S., in addition to cleansing and purifying the blood, assists the stomach and digestive members in the creation of new blood corpuscles and other nourishing matter for the circulation. S. S. S. increases the resistive powers of the system and by strengthening and building up the vitality, allows nature to make a perfect and lasting cure. Book describing the disease and any medical advice sent free to any who write.

Big Soap Shipments Arrive!

Arrangements are practically complete for Soap Week. Enormous quantities of Palmolive and Galvanic Soaps are being placed with retail dealers. There will be free Palmolive Soap for everybody. Nearly every grocer in town has enrolled his name on the list of distributors.

GALVANIC SOAP

The Soap That a Million Women Use

Compare Galvanic with the soap you now use. Then decide which one you want. If Galvanic Soap doesn't do twice the work with half the labor—doesn't make your clothes much whiter and cleaner—doesn't in every way prove its superiority over any other laundry soap at any price—why, then continue to use the old soap.

But if it does what we claim for it—and over a million housewives back our claims by using it every day—you owe it to yourself and to your clothes to use Galvanic and nothing but Galvanic.

Galvanic Soap is a pure white soap. It makes your clothes pure white clean. You don't need to boil the clothes. You don't even need to rub them unless they're very badly soiled.

One million women endorse that statement. We know that you will endorse it if you try one cake.

Light Biscuits that melt in your mouth are made with

Cottolene

Lard is the most commonly used cooking fat, yet, according to well-known authorities, not 10% of the food cooked with lard digests naturally and easily; the other 90%, instead of nourishing the body, merely clogs the digestive organs and starts stomach trouble.

Cottolene is as pure, nutritious and wholesome as olive oil, and makes food which any stomach can digest. It is more economical than lard because it goes one-third farther.

Cottolene shortens your food; lengthens your life.
